ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Publication of the new edition of the Manual was achieved through the coordinated efforts of several State agencies. The State Planning Department wishes to acknowledge the assistance and advice rendered by the following, without whose help the task would have been immeasurably more difficult.

The Planning and Programming Division of the State Roads Commission, under the direction of George W. Cassell, Chief, Planning Survey, assumed the responsibility of scanning the latest maps in the search for new places. The State Roads Commission also contributed the official State Highway Map included as part of this publication.

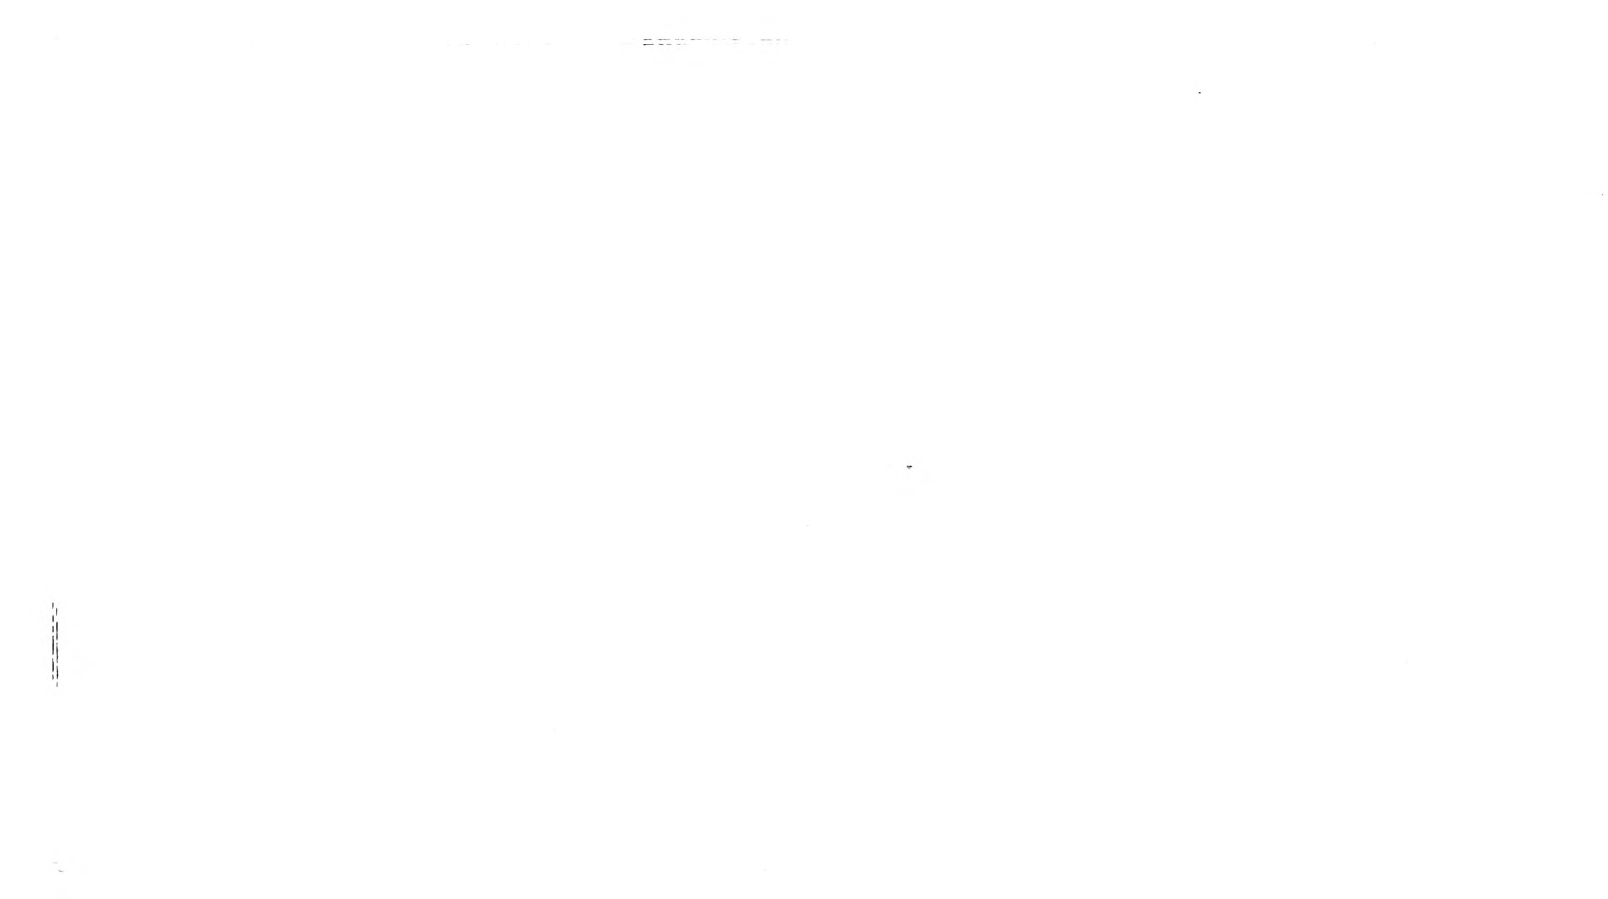

The Data Processing Division of the State Comptroller's office processed the material in the Manual. Frederick R. Stowe, Chief, provided technical advice on the conversion to an electronic data processing system.

The Maryland Department of Employment Security, Baltimore office IBM Section, through James C. Brewer, Manager, and Robert E. Kaiss, Supervisor, provided for the use of the necessary IBM card punching equipment. Mrs. May Sheppard, Tab Operator, provided technical assistance.

INTRODUCTION

This manual, which embodies a simplified method for locating some 11,000 places within the State, is a revised, updated edition of an earlier publication printed in 1947. The accelerated rate of growth since that time has been responsible for extensive physical developments within the State, rendering the older edition somewhat obsolete. Extensive population migration, sprawling housing developments, new highways, expressways and beltways, and industrial growth have characterized the changing Maryland topography, obliterating traditional and establishing completely new landmarks to such an extent that recognition of these new developments has become essential.

In order to keep abreast of such change and to facilitate more frequent revision, processing of this new edition has been achieved through conversion to a more flexible data processing system. The material contained in the manual has been reproduced on special data cards, whose flexibility permits continued reuse, addition of new material, removal of obsolete data and alternate methods of processing at a minimum in time and expense.

Compiled and printed in a form convenient for field use, this new edition, in addition to updating the existing material, has incorporated several new features which are intended to further enhance its practical utility. These include: a listing of places and coordinates by country, alphabetically arranged; an alphabetical listing of housing developments showing names and coordinates; a list of 1960 population figures for the incorporated and unincorporated places in the State; and a copy of the most recent official Maryland Highway Map issued by the Maryland State Roads Commission, on which for convenience sake, the grid system used in the manual has been superimposed.

THE MARYLAND COORDINATE SYSTEM

The grid coordinate system of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey was adopted for the State of Maryland by authority of Chapter 628 of the Acts of the Maryland General Assembly of 1939. This system, known as the Maryland Coordinate System, has been utilized in the preparation of the Manual.

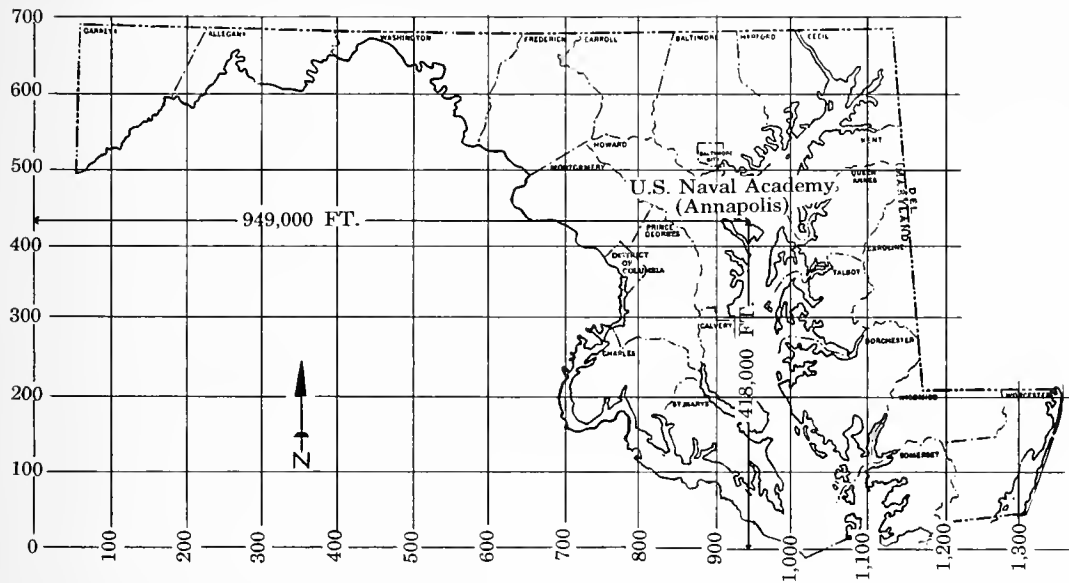

The principle of this system is the same as that used for locating a point on the surface of the earth by longitude and latitude, but in practice it is simpler. In the longitude-latitude method, a point is defined in degrees, minutes, and seconds to represent its distances from the meridian of Greenwich and the equator; whereas, in the system of plane coordinates used herein, a point is designated by actual distances in feet from two imaginary lines, one running east and west, and the other north and south through the point of origin.

The origin of the Maryland Coordinate System has been fixed at a point southwest of the State in order that all coordinates may be to the east and north of it. The coordinates of this point are 0-0, and for the purpose of this manual, the imaginary lines of the grid are spaced at intervals of 1,000 feet bearing due east and due north from this point. By superimposing such a grid on any map of Maryland it becomes possible to define any place shown on the map or to find any place on the map if its coordinates are known.

Two numbers define each place in the alphabetical listing which follows. The first number designates the distance in thousands of feet that the place lies east of the point of origin, and the second, the distance in thousands of feet that the place lies north of the point of origin. The coordinates are given only to the nearest thousand feet, which is adequate for purposes of identification. As an illustration of the use of plane coordinates we will locate the U. S. Naval Academy. The index which follows lists the coordinates of the U. S. Naval Academy as 949-418. In referring to a map of Maryland with the coordinate grid superimposed, we find that the Naval Academy is located at a distance of approximately 949,000 feet to the east and approximately 418,000 feet to the north of the point of origin.

If the grid lines are not spaced at 1,000-foot intervals, it is usually easy to gauge the distances between the lines to locate a place named on the map. However, if the place is not named, it can readily be located by simple scaling.

GENERAL ALPHABETICAL LISTING OF PLACES

This listing is basically the same one used in the earlier publication of the Manual. However, in order to make it as accurate, complete and up to date as possible, the material in the earlier manual was reviewed thoroughly, names of places no longer existing were removed, known grammatical and spelling errors corrected, superfluous data eliminated and the names of new places obtained by scanning the most recent maps were added to the existing list.

From the original list of 12,000 places, almost 4,000 were eliminated as a result of the review. Scanning the maps produced some 3,000 new places which were not in existence or unknown at the time of the last publication. As a net result, this new listing contains approximately 11,000 names of places.

ALPHABETICAL LISTING OF PLACES BY COUNTY

This additional listing of places by county which was not included in the earlier edition provides a means for locating places within specified counties. In combination with the previous general alphabetical listing, it offers alternative and more comprehensive means of locating places in the State.

The county abbreviations shown in the previous listing have been omitted for obvious reasons, and the full name of the county in which the places are located is shown at the top of each individual page.

APPENDIX

RAILROAD STATIONS

The railroad, once a proud symbol and vital key in the development of the American economy, appears to be assuming a role of secondary importance. In contrast to other physical developments in the State, the number of railroads operating and the number of railroad stations open have decreased substantially in recent years.

In 1947, date of publication of the earlier manual, there were listed 8 individual railroads operating in Maryland with approximately 650 railroad stations to accommodate passenger and freight traffic. A current review of these facilities, as listed in this new edition, reveals that only 6 railroads are presently operating, and some of these have drastically curtailed their activities. The number of railroad stations has been reduced by 20 per cent, from nearly 650 to its present total of 517, a rate of 1 per cent a year. In view of the rapid growth of other elements of the economy, these reductions appear most significant.

LOCATION OF NUMBERED HIGHWAYS

The listing which follows is designated for rapid location of numbered highways within the State.

The numbered highways listed are those which have been field posted by standard route markers. Since there is no duplication in numbering between the State and US numbered highways, no distinction between the two is made in the listing. However, since there is duplication in numbering between the State and Interstate Highway System, this latter group, which at the present time are few in number, have been listed under a separate heading.

In the numbering of both the US and the Interstate systems, even numbered routes have a general West to East direction, with the odd numbers a North to South direction. On the Interstate highway, a three digit number indicates a beltway or spur around or into a major center of population — a beltway being designated by an even number first digit and a spur by an odd number first digit. A split in a major route to approach two major centers of population in the same general corridor is designated by the placement of one of the letters — N, S, E or W after a two digit number.

Inasmuch as a road is represented on a map by a continuous line, any one of a number of sets of coordinates might be selected to define the road location. The coordinates used in this manual therefore have been chosen on the basis of the following considerations:

1. The point should be approximately midway between the ends of the highway. In some cases where there are two separate sections, as for example US Route 301 where portions are on opposite sides of the Chesapeake Bay, two sets of coordinates are given.
2. The point should preferably be away from other roads or road junctions for positive identification. Care has been taken to select locations in open spaces where there would be less likelihood of confusion with new roads which may appear on future maps.
3. The point should be designated by coordinates easily remembered, particularly numbers for which grid lines would probably be used, such as even hundreds and multiples of 10 or 50. Wherever possible grid lines crossing the road at nearly right angles have been selected.

LISTING OF HOUSING SUBDIVISIONS

Nothing has characterized the changing Maryland topography more in the post war years than the increasing number of sprawling housing developments. Growing population, the flight to the suburbs and the scarcity of land in the larger cities has been responsible for precipitating this physical phenomenon. Because of the permanent nature of these landscape changes and because the development of these housing projects obliterated many well established landmarks, inclusion of them as part of this publication was deemed essential.

CALENDAR of EVENTS

April 19 The Baltimore Clash—The 6th Massachusetts Regiment was attacked by angry citizens. Four soldiers and twelve civilians were killed.

April 20-21 Railway bridges over the Bush and Gunpowder Rivers and Harris Creek were burned by order of the Mayor and Police Commissioners of Baltimore to prevent the passage of additional troops through Baltimore.

May 6 Gen. Benjamin F. Butler occupied Federal Hill in Baltimore.

May 11 Gen. Benjamin F. Butler occupied Federal Hill in Baltimore.

May 25 John Merryman suspected of Confederate sympathies was arrested and confined at Ft. McHenry. Justice Roger Brooke Taney issued a writ of habeas corpus for his appearance in court, but the writ was refused by Gen. George Cadwalader on order of President Lincoln.

June 28 The steamer St. Nicholas was seized near Point Lookout by Captain George N. Hollister and Richard Thomas—Col. Zerkow—and taken to Frederickburg, Va.

Sept. 10-30 More than a score of officers and members of the Maryland legislature were arrested, accused of being disloyal. In Baltimore, Francis Key Howard and others were arrested and confined in Ft. McHenry. Francis Key Howard was not unkindly that ten-seven years before, his grandfather watching the fort had been met to write "The Star Spangled Banner."

Oct. 27 Battle of Bull's Bluff, Va. Union troops crossing the Potomac in disguise the Confederate force on the Bull were defeated with heavy losses.

May 28 Judge Richard B. Carmichael was arrested by Federal officers and removed by force from his court in Eastern.

Sept. 4-7 Gen. Lee and the Army of Northern Virginia crossed the Potomac at White's Ford and camped near Frederick.

Sept. 10 Elements of the 2nd Corps, Army of Northern Virginia—but not General Thomas J. Jackson—may have passed along Patrick Street before the home of Barbara Feilich, later made famous by the poet John Greenleaf Whitman of Massachusetts.

Sept. 13 Special Order No. 191 issued by a Confederate near Frederick revealed the wife dispersal of the Confederate Army and spared Gen. George B. McClellan to attempt its destruction before it could be concentrated.

Sept. 14 Battle of South Mountain—Gen. Jesse L. Reno killed.

Sept. 15 Harper's Ferry was captured by Gen. Stonewall Jackson.

Sept. 17 Battle of Antietam. This battle ending Lee's invasion of Maryland gave President Lincoln a vantage point from which to issue the Emancipation Proclamation.

his provisional proclamation of emancipation. Among the women attending the wounded about Sharpsburg was Clara Barton, later to found the American Red Cross.

Oct. 10-12 Gen. J. E. B. Stuart raided Chambersburg, Pa., twice, crossing Maryland and the Potomac River.

1863

April 25 Confederate Gen. William E. Jones occupied Oakland and destroyed the railway bridge over the Yonahophos River.

June 15 The Army of Northern Virginia entered Maryland and marched northwardly towards Gettysburg, Pa.

June 25 Gen. Joseph Hooker led the advanced elements of the Army of the Potomac across the river at Edward's Ferry.

June 28-29 John Stuart crossed the Potomac at Rover's Ford. After capturing a wagon train between Rockville and Washington on the 28th, Stuart moved northwardly through Westminster to Pennsylvania and Gettysburg. Gen. George Gordon Meade near Frederick replaced Joseph Hooker as commander of the Army of the Potomac.

July 13-14 The Army of Northern Virginia crossed into Virginia at Williamsport and Falling Waters.

June 7 The National Union Convention met in Baltimore. President Lincoln and Andrew Johnson were nominated as President and Vice-President respectively.

July 5 Gen. Jubal A. Early crossed the Potomac for a thrust at Washington, D. C. in course of his raid. Early's advance into Baltimore, Hagerstown and Middletown compelled these towns to pay the Confederate force $200,000, $200,000 and $1,500 respectively.

July 9 Battle of Monocacy. Here General Lew Wallace checked for a few hours the Confederate advance under Early. Among the troops commanded by Wallace was Reckitt's Division of the South Corps dispatched by Gen. Grant from Virginia to meet this threat in Washington.

July 10-11 Troops of Gen. Bradley T. Johnson and Col. Harry Gilmer passed through New Windsor, Westminster and Towson. Gilmer burned the railway bridge over the Gunpowder River.

July 13 Gen. Jubal A. Early retired from the environs of Washington and Silver Spring.

Oct. 12-13 The Maryland Centennial of 1864 was celebrated. Article twenty-four provided for the early emancipation of the slaves within the state. This constitution was replaced by that of 1867 which is in force today.

Feb. 21 McNair's Rangers took Union Generals Benjamin F. Kelley and George Crook from their birth and camp in Cumberland and escaped with them to Virginia.

April 14-21 John Wilkes Booth having shot President Lincoln fled through Prince George's and Charles Counties in Virginia.

This is the 1962 edition of Maryland's Official Highway Map. Our State is in the midst of an accelerated program of primary road construction which will give safe and efficient transportation to the greatest number of motorists in the shortest possible time. Maryland believes that better roads save lives, time and money. This map will help the motoring public make the best possible use of these new roads as well as the established routes within our State.

This year, the reverse side of the map is devoted to the commemoration of the Civil War Centennial, depicting some of the more important events of this struggle which took place in Maryland. It was thought it might be helpful to motorists and visitors who might wish to travel to the many points of interest associated with the Civil War.

Wherever you go in Maryland, you will find accommodations staffed by people anxious to serve you and eager to help you enjoy our State to the utmost.

Maryland's roadbuilders have incorporated every modern concept of safety into our highways. Won't you show an equal interest and drive with care, observing all the rules of the road established for your safety?

Finally, I recommend that you visit, if time permits, the many fine picnic areas, forests, parks and recreation sites that have been established and are maintained for your use in Maryland. In the hope this map will be both interesting and helpful to you, I am, with every good wish,

Sincerely yours,
Thomas M. Tawes
Governor of Maryland
